

Master of Communication Management
Graduate Application Guidelines and Instructions for Spring/Summer/Fall 2010

Application Filing Period

Admission to the Master of Communication Management – entertainment, global, health and social change, marketing, new communication technologies, organizational and strategic corporate, and politics, law and policy tracks – is offered fall, spring and summer terms.

Term Beginning	Application Filing Period
January (spring)	August 1 – December 4
May (summer)	February 15 – April 1
August (fall)	February 15 – July 1

U.S. citizens and permanent residents may apply anytime during the filing period.

International students must apply on the first day of the filing period to ensure ample processing time

Application Process

- 1) Go to www.usc.edu/admission/graduate/apply/ and complete the online USC Graduate Admission Application. You must upload the following materials before submitting your application:
 - Statement of Purpose
 - Writing Sample
 - Professional Résumé
 - Non-refundable application fee
- 2) Request letters of recommendation
 - Two letters of recommendation required
- 3) Mail the following materials to USC Graduate Admission Office, University Park, Los Angeles, CA 90089-0915:
 - Official transcripts from all colleges/ universities attended, including from study abroad programs
 - Confidential statement of financial support (international applicants only)
- 4) Request to have your admission tests reported electronically to USC (institution code 4852)
 - Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test or Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT)
 - TOEFL scores (international applicants only)

Statement of Purpose

In a two to three page essay, respond to these questions:

- How does advanced work in communication management relate to your career goals?
- Why is the USC Annenberg School especially suited to your needs?

Writing Sample

Upload a professional or academic writing sample (quarterly or annual report, brochure, published article or news clipping, or a college/university research paper).

Résumé

Submit a current resume listing positions held, including internships, nature of work and dates of employment. Include academic and professional awards, honors, association memberships, teaching experience, subject matter expertise, language(s) other than English, and your familiarity with any research or communications technologies, e.g. Web design, television production, spreadsheets, etc., Indicate your proficiency level for each skill and area of expertise (E = expert, C = competent, F = familiar).

Letters of Recommendation

Faculty recommendations are preferred. However, if you have substantial work experience, you may provide professional references (managers and supervisors, not peers and co-workers). If you provide recommenders' e-mail addresses on the online application, they will receive online recommendation forms.

Admission Testing

All applicants must submit Graduate Record Examination (GRE) General Test scores and the minimum required score is 1,000 (GRE-verbal subscore + GRE-quantitative subscore). Applicants may submit General Management Admission Test (GMAT) scores in lieu of GRE scores and the minimum required score is 650.

International applicants must demonstrate English language proficiency. If your bachelor degree was not earned at a U.S. or UK college/university, you may be required to submit TOEFL scores; the minimum recommended score is 114-115 (IBT). For more international admission information, refer to the USC Graduate Admission Web site at <http://www.usc.edu/admission/graduate/international/application.html>.

Plan to complete all admission testing at least one month prior to the application filing period.

English Proficiency

Based on demonstrated English language proficiency, an international applicant may be required or recommended to complete a USC Language Academy Intensive English Program before admission to the Master in Communication Management. For more information about the program, refer to the Academy's Web site at www.usc.edu/dept/education/langacad/.

Estimated Cost of Attendance 2009-2010 (Per Course)

Graduate tuition	$5196 per course ($1299 per unit)
Books and supplies	$150 – 200
Mandatory USC orientation fee	$35

Financial Aid

Departmental scholarships are very limited for this degree program. If awards become available, all applicants with completed applications will be considered. No additional application form is required. The vast majority of the incoming graduate class is self-funded, so plan to seek and apply for outside scholarships; begin researching opportunities at www.fastweb.com.

U.S. citizens and permanent residents may apply for need-based federal financial aid. Visit the USC Financial Aid Web site at www.usc.edu/admission/fa/applying_receiving/graduates/ for information about need-based federal financial aid.

International applicants must provide proof of ability to pay tuition and living expenses before an admission decision is released. For more information, refer to the USC Graduate & International Admission Web site at www.usc.edu/admission/graduate/international/application.html.

Prospective Graduate Student Campus Visits

Graduate information sessions are held on campus throughout the academic year. In addition, the Annual Prospective Graduate Student Visit Day program will be held on November 6, 2009. For other dates and to make a reservation, visit our Web site at <http://www.annenberq.usc.edu/Prospective/VisitandSched.aspx>.

Questions

Contact Annenberg Admissions at ascadm@usc.edu or 213.821.0770.